In eleven chapters this book addresses the issue of the re-emergence of China and a new global order on the world stage, with implications for the existing US hegemonic liberal international order. The Re-Emergence of China reviews the history of China's astounding economic growth and geopolitical development over the past 30 years. It explores the economic, technological, and global development of China during this period; explores the political philosophy and praxis from imperial neo-Confucian times to the present socialist regime; the cultural and social development of China and the role of the Chinese diaspora; and examines the prospects for a new international order with a major role for China.

This book will fit comfortably into the required reading schedule for graduate class modules in Chinese and East Asian studies, political theory, economic development, and contemporary political history. Of particular interest will be the exploration of the role of the Chinese diaspora in modern China's development. The authors' focus on the contemporary conflict between the US and China will also be of wider interest to political commentators as well as academic researchers in Chinese studies.

The Re-Emergence of China can provide a guiding narrative for academics, researchers, policymakers, industry leaders and many other relevant professionals on how global society can be reshaped in the wake of China's re-emergence in the new global era. By focusing on China's integration with the economic and political world order, in terms of both its advances and setbacks, in addition to the historical contexts, readers can navigate the book's succinct coverage and conclusions on the development of a China polity which has become increasingly connected to the world in some ways, yet more disconnected in others.

Readership

Valuable to social science students, graduates and researchers with an interest in politics, economics and international relations. It should also appeal to the business and professional markets, in addition to policymakers.

About the Authors

Michael Lloyd MA (Cantab), DSS (Oxon), DLL (Plymouth), is Senior Research Fellow and Associate Director, Global Policy Institute, and former Visiting Fellow, Newcastle University. Lloyd was educated at Oxford and Cambridge, following which he entered professional life as an applied economist, working, inter alia, as an official of the European Commission, as Economic Adviser to the European Parliament, and as an independent economic consultant, based in the UK and Brussels. Since 2008, Michael has been a Senior Research Fellow of the Global Policy Institute in London. He has written extensively on European and global political and economic affairs, including on federalism. In 2020, he published The Federalist Revolution, which followed a previous book on political philosophy, The Revolution of Civil Society, in 2017. His latest book, British Business Banking, was published in February 2021. He has had a keen interest for many years in issues surrounding the UK and other national constitutions, including China. Michael currently lives in the rural county of Northumberland, UK, and writes poetry as a relaxation from his other writing.

Bob Savic is currently a Senior Research Fellow at the Global Policy Institute in London and a Visiting Professor with the University of Nottingham's Asia Research Institute where he specializes in International Relations and Politics. Bob also contributes regularly to the South China Morning Post, the Diplomat, Bangkok Post and numerous other internationally renowned publications on Chinese political and economic issues.

Professionally, Bob has worked for over 30 years in China and across Asia, including with Deloitte China, Ernst & Young Singapore, Horwath Hong Kong, Asia Law & Practice and Asian Finance in Hong Kong. Currently, Bob is an Advisor to Asia-based legal and accounting services firm, Dezan Shira, where he also writes for the firm's online platforms such as China Briefing, Silk Road Briefing and ASEAN Briefing on cross-border trade and investment matters, in addition to his contributions on the firm's latest Belt & Road Business Guide.
